

MEDICAL SCHOOL IS ESTABLISHED FOR CELESTIALS

Members of China Board of Rockefeller Foundation Are Returning From Mission

CHAIRMAN BUTTERICK
TELLS OF WORK DONE

Institution Located At Peking
Will Be Finest of Kind
In World

Among the through passengers in the Tenyo Maru, which sails for the Coast this morning, are the members of the China Medical Board of the Rockefeller Foundation of New York. The personnel of the board is Dr. Wallace Butterick (chairman), Dr. William H. Welch, Dr. Simon Flexner and Dr. Frederick L. Gates. There are three women in the party—Mrs. Butterick, Miss Butterick and Mrs. Flexner. With the exception of Doctor Welch, whose home is in Baltimore, all the members of the board reside in New York.

Doctor Butterick, chairman of the expedition, was spotting in the Waikiki surf when seen by an advertiser reporter, and with a voice depicting his whole soul in his work, he spoke of the object of the China Medical Board. "Of all the nations of the world," he said, "China is perhaps the only one that is not enjoying the benefits of modern medical intelligence. To relieve this deplorable condition, this commission was organized, and about two years ago the initial step was taken when a number of influential men, including President Judson of the University of Chicago and Dr. Francis Peabody of the Harvard Medical School of Boston, were sent to China to investigate conditions.

"Last August our party went to China and established the first medical school there by purchasing the Union Medical College at Peking. This will be entirely remodeled and enlarged to suit our plans, and new buildings will be erected. According to the definite plans we have now, when completed this will be the most modern medical school in the world. Half a million dollars has been set aside by the Foundation for this work, and up until the time we left China something in the neighborhood of $200,000 had been expended. A dispensary, hospital and several other needed improvements will be made, before the school will be accepted as complete.

"We traveled over a great part of China, Japan and Korea and everywhere we went we met with the greatest enthusiasm for our work. As an evidence of the light in which the Chinese government regards our work, the then president of the Republic received us with the greatest honors and contributed a liberal amount of cash toward the school."

According to present plans of the board, there perhaps will be another school erected at Shanghai, and later on still another, placed in some convenient Chinese city. The present school at Peking, when complete, will be of ample dimensions to accommodate at least one hundred students. The school is under the charge of Resident Director Roger S. Green, a very capable man, according to the recommendations as spoken by Doctor Butterick. For two years Mr. Green was consul-general of the United States, stationed at Hankow and resigned the consulate to associate himself with the Rockefeller Foundation.

Necessarily will require some time for the school to be accepted as satisfactory. As yet the class of students is very small, owing to the essential requirements before scholars will be accepted. At present the board is working in conjunction with the missionary schools throughout China and it will be largely upon their recommendations that students will be admitted into the Peking school. Every student applying for admission will have to show a satisfactory college diploma, and while the school will not be self-sustaining, financial aid is to some extent expected to arise from the missionary schools.

When asked if the Rockefeller Foundation would establish schools in the Orient, other than in China, Doctor Butterick replied with a decided "No."

"China is the only place that needs them," he said, "and China alone we will confine our efforts."

Speaking of Honolulu, Doctor Butterick was almost as enthusiastic about the city as he is about his work. "Beautiful," he exclaimed, inhaling a deep breath of sea air. "I enjoyed my short stay here last August while we were en route to China, but our time was limited and I have enjoyed this visit much more. The opportunity of bathing on your beautiful beach was not afforded me then. This time I promised myself that I would not pass through Honolulu without indulging in the sport that is making your city famous. We are all very anxious to return to our homes, and if it were not for that I would prolong my stay here that I might see more of the islands."

AERO CLUB OF AMERICA IN DEFENSE MOVEMENT

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
NEW YORK, December 20.—The Aero Club of America announces that it will give an additional ten per cent for each $10,000 that the states will raise for the purchase of aeroplanes for the future militia. The heads of twenty-four states have requested assistance in getting air-machines. The club advocates the distribution of 2000 aeroplanes for the defense of the United States.

REFUSE TO ACCEPT KUHIO ROAD WHARF

Harbor Board Finds Bumps and Lumps and Tells Foss
To Be Good

It was a bumpy and lumpy session the harbor board held last night when it had discussed the bumps and lumps of the Kuhio wharf road in Hilo to its entire satisfaction the board decided to notify J. C. Foss Jr., the contractor that it would not accept the work until he had removed the bumps and lumps from the road and conformed in all other respects to the plans and specifications of his contract.

Engineer Greger, who has been supervising the work in Hilo, was present at last night's meeting. He produced correspondence which proved that he had notified Contractor Foss of the faults in the road work as this proceeded along.

Board Is Protected
While the road has been completed, as Foss claims, the contractor has not been paid the full amount on the contract, the unpaid balance representing twenty per cent of the total. And then there is the bond which was exacted and given to insure the faithful performance of the work. This being the case, the board is of the opinion that it has Mr. Foss on the "hip." There are indications that the lumpy and bumpy mess may go to the courts.

Captain Serrao As Pilot
The board authorized Capt. Louis G. Serrao of Hilo to act temporarily as pilot in the harbor there, owing to the serious illness of Pilot Ferdinand Mosher, who is now incapacitated. It was found necessary to appoint a substitute in order to handle the Great Northern when that big steamer arrives tomorrow morning in Hilo on her second regular run to the islands. Captain Serrao will not look to the harbor board for compensation, it being made plain that this is a matter which he will have to settle with Captain Mosher.

Reading of much correspondence and the approval of a mass of bills occupied the board the rest of the meeting, which was rather lengthy.

Question of New Rules
The board expects shortly to bring to a head the matter of its new rules and regulations, which have been under consideration for the little matter of two years, more or less. Some of the members feel now that life is too short, after all, and that if the board does not settle down to a real earnest tackle of the rules and regulations these will not be approved during the life time of the present members. It is now understood that after some insistence Acting Chairman Wheeler will place these rules and regulations first on the order of "new" business at each meeting from now on and keep at them until the end is reached.

The board will hold its regular meeting at half past eight o'clock this afternoon. All the members were present last night. Clerk Frank C. Poor, who is ill at his home, was absent, but his duties were looked after and performed for the time being by Miss Dorothea A. Ellerbrock, the stenographer of the board.

DOCUMENTS AFFECT HILO BREAKWATER CONTRACTS

Secure Surety Company Against Quarry Indebtedness

Three documents filed yesterday in the office of the registrar of conveyances formally announce the assignment of a license to take rock from the Waipio quarry, in the county of Hawaii, by George E. Marshall to the American Surety Company. The owner and licensor is the Pacific Sugar Mill. The American Surety Company, as bondsman for the now defunct Philadelphia Breakwater Company, is responsible to the government for the completion of the big Hilo breakwater project. George E. Marshall, at present working on the breakwater, has his contract from the surety company. He entered into agreement with the Pacific Sugar Mill in July, 1914, whereby he was granted a license to take rock from the quarry at Waipio.

The instruments just filed are the original quarry license given the contractor by the Pacific Sugar Mill, permission by the latter to Marshall to assign the license to the surety company, and the formal transfer.

The last named document states the transfer is made as security for the performance of the breakwater contract, for repayment to the surety company of sums already advanced the contractor by it, and for those sums which may be advanced hereafter. The license discloses the terms of agreement between Marshall and the quarry owners. He is to pay them at a rate of five cents a ton; he is given permission to take 300,000 tons of rock; he must make monthly reports of the amount taken and payments therefor, the total amount to be paid by December 1 of the present year to be not less than $5000 and a similar sum for the ensuing year, to December 1, 1916.

GERMAN NAVY HAS TAKEN OR DESTROYED 734 SHIPS

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
BERLIN, December 21.—Since the beginning of the war, up to the first of December, the German navy has captured or destroyed 734 ships of the enemy, with a total tonnage of 1,447,629 tons. Of these, 568 were sunk by submarines and ninety-three were destroyed by German mines. The greater part of the losses on the water have fallen upon the British, who have lost a total of 624, aggregating 1,231,944 tons.

GOVERNMENT OPENS FINE NEW MARKET TO SERVE PUBLIC

Commodious and Modern Quarters
To Be Inaugurated
Formally Next Friday

SUPERINTENDENT LONGLEY
PLEASED WITH LOCATION

Produce of Every Description Will Be Handled For Benefit of Purchasers

The territorial marketing division has moved into its new and commodious quarters in Maunakea street, above Queen. Yesterday business was done at the new stand for the first time and today and tomorrow there will be trial openings in preparation for the grand opening on Friday, the day before Christmas.

Superintendent A. T. Longley is greatly pleased with the new location and the market is now complete with the exception of a cold storage plant which was figured on but which the smallness of the appropriation did not allow for. The present building and fittings cost $13,000 and there is a balance left of about $1300. A cold storage plant would cost about $2500 and when this is put in the market will be well equipped for handling perishable goods.

Room For Dressing Poutry
The new market is on the plan of the larger fishmarkets and there are now conveniences which in the old location were not possible. There is a room for the dressing of poultry and fowls may be ordered and the housewife spared the trouble of drawing her purchase. A room for egg-candling and a fumigating room are among the necessary improvements installed.

In the new market it will be the plan to establish a little retail department where small shipments will be taken care of in lots. In this way a patron of the place will have his goods sold for him to the market, and a return made immediately in place of waiting for the showing of poultry and ducks have been placed and the separation of the market into the two divisions one retail and the other wholesale will aid to the comfort of the purchasers in the two classes.

Large shipments of all sorts of produce are expected by the steamers reaching here from the other islands between now and Christmas and by Friday everything will be in readiness for the crowds of purchasers who are expected. The market will be kept open for the accommodation of the public on Christmas Eve.

JUDGE DOLE HEARS FROM WASHINGTON

Attorney-General Gregory Not Prepared To Say Anything
About Federal Position

After waiting six days, Judge Dole received yesterday from Attorney General Gregory an answer to the cablegram from the local jurist sent out on Wednesday of last week, in which he asked for information regarding the probability of his reappointment, and incidentally informing the Washington official that under the statute no provision was made for a federal judge to continue in office after the termination of his term of office. Attorney General Gregory's answer was as follows:

"Washington, December 20, 1915.
"Hon. Sanford B. Dole, United States District Judge, Hawaii.
"Telegram received. Am not prepared to answer your inquiry."
"GREGORY."

Judge Dole's friends say they see in the tenor of the answer a ray of hope and believe that the department has under consideration Judge Dole's reappointment.

On the eve of his retirement from office, Judge Dole was busy with J. McCann, whose deletion as district attorney will come about on the last day of this month, when a report circulated yesterday that McCann had suddenly conceived the idea that he would like to be considered an aspirant to succeed Judge Dole on the federal bench.

The story had McCann busy among his political friends and the Democratic organization working support and encouragement. Just what amount of either he received the rumor fell shy of. A few of McCann's friends were asked yesterday about the report and all were of the opinion that the district attorney "hadn't a ghost of a look in" as one man put it.

"I am sorry to say positively that Mr. McCann will leave us as soon as the new district attorney is appointed and qualified," an attorney who has heretofore represented McCann said last night.

civilians, so far as the franchise went. But could vote at their homes and neither could vote away from home. The denouement of the soldier subsided. Rath Against Shooting

James A. Rath spoke at length in opposition to the drill features of the plan, after he had listened to Captain Massee's elaboration of the committee's scheme. "I can agree in some things with Captain Massee," said Mr. Rath, "but not in everything. I agree with him when he says concerning the value of cadetship in building up the body, but when it comes to the matter of teaching boys how to shoot, I most emphatically disagree with Captain Massee. Why do we want to show our boys how to shoot their fellows?"

"In Germany, boys must be twenty years of age before they are really taught soldierly. They realize that they can't take immature boys and drill them without hurting them physically. In most colleges now, the boys are compelled to engage in some kind of athletics, but they are not compelled to take military training."

"Mr. Emerson has talked about the present generation not having manners. Military training is not going to teach them manners. No, they are all taught their manners before they are seven years old. The idea that military training is going to better them is not right, for as soon as they are away from the drill grounds they are just simply boys."

"A man once told me that of all the boys who came to his college, from public schools, private institutions, and from military schools, those who almost invariably stood highest were those from the public schools. The boy to-day is no worse than he was fifty years ago. I know for I handle about seventy of them every Sunday."

"A few years ago I stood with you. I thought that military training would do them good, and so I engaged a sergeant to drill them. The result was that they were no better, and although they were no worse a lot of time had been wasted which I now am convinced could have been spent more profitably."

"And so I say, trustees, before you decide this matter, think about it long and carefully, and I say, Punahou, go slowly in this matter."

Judge Dole Plais Non-Resister
A reference by one of the non-resisters to the horror that would be felt among the missionary fathers if they could hear of the plan to train the youths of Punahou in drill and target practice elicited a strong reply from Judge Dole, who recalled the days of 1865, when he and the other Punahou students had daily drill under a German sergeant.

"This will not be the first time military instruction will be had at Punahou," he said. "It was given to us in the sixties by a German sergeant. It was harmless and it did me good, and it did not make any of us blood-thirsty cut-throats. I feel that it would be a benefit to the Punahou boys and I feel that at least a trial should be made, for it certainly will not hurt them, if it is not found satisfactory, it can be given up."

Walter Dillingham reminded those present that the greatest man Punahou ever turned out, the man of whom they were proudest, was General Armstrong, a famous fighter and the founder of Hampton Institute. His military training and his years of fighting had not prevented him from being one of the great Christian leaders of the nation.

"Endurance, preparedness and an ability to scrap was the spirit which built up Punahou," he said. "If ever he time comes, I want my boy to be able to do his bit and do it well."

James A. Wilder made a plea for the introduction of the Boy Scout plan, especially for the younger boys, stating that the Scout training gives to the youth all the necessary elements of soldiering that he can profitably absorb, and teaches him other useful things as well.

Other speakers were J. S. Emerson, D. Richards, Sherwood Lowrey, Wallace K. Farrington, Major Lenihan and Captain Massee.

Massee Plan of Training
The latter outlined very carefully what the plan of preliminary training is to consist of, if the report of the committee be adopted. He said:

"The few months remaining of the present school year preclude a schedule of training extending much beyond physical and disciplinary exercises. It is expected that the first few weeks will be devoted to physical exercises without arms, these exercises being graded in severity according to the physical condition of the student. In all these exercises the student will be informed that as soon as any muscle becomes overworked, he may, without further permission, discontinue the exercise until he feels sufficiently rested to resume work. These exercises will be so varied as to bring into play all the muscles of the body without unnecessary fatigue, to bring about a proper set up, and to effect activity and proper balance. This will be followed by facing, marching, squad, platoon and company movements without arms, the physical drill without arms constituting a part of the exercise throughout the year."

"This work will be followed by the manual of arms for those armed with the rifle, the care of the rifle, and physical exercises with arms."

"All this followed by combining the work so that the students will get company and battalion work with and

DETECTIVE TESTIFIES SCHMIDT TOLD OF PLOT

Los Angeles Times Outrage Was To Murder Otis

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
LOS ANGELES, December 21.—Donald Voss Meeserve, a detective, was one of the important witnesses for the State put on the stand yesterday in the trial of Matthew Schmidt, accused of being one of the principals in the destruction of the Los Angeles Times Building in 1910, when twenty men were killed.

Meeserve testified that he has been in the employment of the State and had worked up evidence against Schmidt while posing as a union sympathizer. He succeeded in gaining Schmidt's confidence and was told by Schmidt much of the details of the Times explosion.

Among other things, Schmidt confessed to him the fact that after the explosion he had schemed to murder Gen. Harrison Gray Otis, the owner of the Times.

STEAMER EASTLAND BOUGHT BY ILLINOIS

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
CHICAGO, December 21.—The steamer Eastland, which capsize at her dock in the North River during the summer, when ready to carry an excursion party, resulting in the death by drowning of upwards of a thousand excursionists, has been sold by the Eastland Steamship Company to the State of Illinois. The steamer will be remodeled and turned over to the Illinois naval reserve as a training ship.

WIDELY-KNOWN EDITOR MARRIED FIFTY YEARS

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
NEW ORLEANS, December 21.—Col. and Mrs. Henry Waterson yesterday celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. The widely-known editor and publisher was married on December 20, 1865, to Miss Rebecca Ewing, daughter of the Hon. Andrew Ewing of Nashville, Tennessee. He was one of the Civil War heroes of the South, at the time of his marriage, having served as chief of scouts under General Jackson.

TUSKEGEE INSTITUTE HAS NEW PRINCIPAL

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
NEW YORK, December 21.—The appointment of Maj. Robert R. Moton, to succeed the late Booker T. Washington as president of the Tuskegee Institute, was formally announced by the trustees yesterday. Major Moton, who is a full blood Negro, has been substituting on many occasions during the past years for Doctor Washington. He has been regularly commandant of cadets at Hampton Institute, of which he is a graduate.

BIG GERMAN OFFENSIVE IN WEST IS DEVELOPING

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
LONDON, December 20.—Indications are that the long-expected German offensive on the west has begun to develop. The British official statement declares that the Germans have been massing in Flanders for weeks. French reports say that the Germans attacked the British trenches northeast of Ypres but failed to completely take French emerged from their own trenches. Those who did were mowed down.

MONITORS FORCED TO RETIRE

(Associated Press by Federal Wireless.)
BERLIN, December 20.—Monitors of the Entente Powers have shelled Westende, Flanders, but were driven away by the German land batteries. German aviators attacked Poperinghe, near Ypres, where the enemy are concentrated.

out arms, including a limited amount of extended order and patrolling.

First Aid Training
During all the year the instruction will include, so far as time will permit, practical instruction in the care of the person, first aid, care of rooms, hygiene and sanitation and some of the elementary principles of discipline.

It is also expected to devote a part of the time to explaining to the student some of the rules of personal safety, and in forming habits of neatness and intelligent obedience and self-respect.

It is expected that the cadet of the present year will be taken from boys who, in addition to being most proficient in drill, may lead the others in character, leadership and general conduct.

Purely Tentative
To those who are accustomed to the training of men, the scheme outlined will appear too elementary and will appear to stop about where it really should begin, but, in a purely tentative scheme, dealing with young boys and very young men, it is believed that the limited time can best be employed in building up sound and active bodies, making them young men better able to throw off disease, better fitted for their mental work, and that a normal amount of well distributed instruction in physical and disciplinary exercises and drills, supplemented by instruction in the general principles of health, hygiene, safety, discipline and manual deportment, will result in at least a portion of such instruction being carried outside of the drill ground and follow up the student even after the technical of the drill may have been forgotten.
